Historical Summary

An entire generation had passed away in the wilderness. Only Joshua and Caleb remain to speak of the time before the wilderness. Now the children of Israel must cross the Jordan River and enter into the promised land and take hold of the inheritance God had prepared for them. We too are children of promise.

Egypt to Canaan:

The Believers' Pilgrimage through an Inhospitable World

Our Response to our Inheritance

By Bert Joyce, Truth and Tidings, June Issue 2000:

"The Lord had delivered Israel from the hand of Pharaoh and the bondage of Egypt 40 years earlier. They sojourned in the wilderness all those years because they had not obeyed the voice of the Lord (Josh 5:6). The Lord in His mercy finally brought them to the banks of the Jordan which they crossed over as though on dry land, and encamped at Gilgal. There, these weary pilgrims found a place of rest and refreshment. It must have been a beautiful experience. Every believer should visit Calvary daily. It is the place to remember and to rejoice in the mighty deliverance from the penalty of our sin and the blessings of redemption. Remember Calvary – all that it means to God the Father, all that it means to the Lord Jesus Christ, and all that it means to you and me."
